The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

A Long, Hard Civic Summer

The civic problems of Lemon Grove continue to grow. First, the Chamber of Commerce announced the cutback of its open hours to save on payroll when it appeared expenses would be greater than income.

Now the Plaza Beautification Program is in danger of collapsing.

This, in spite of the fact that business is rocking along at a fair enough clip that business firms are not crying poor mouth.

The Chamber mounted a steak and champagne dinner last week for visitors from Ruislip, England (see story elsewhere in this issue) and that went off just fine. That indicates that the project sponsored by these groups are going along well but the financing is dying. This is unfortunate in both instances. The Chamber represents Lemon Grove shops and houses. The plaza is the public park of the business community, and should be kept clean and green. Both the chamber and the plaza project are suffering a public indifference that is shocking.

Mrs. Mildred Heusch and Mrs. Doris Chappelle said jointly this week that plaza upkeep expenses exceeded income by nearly $1,000. Contributions are at the lowest level ever.

Mrs. Heusch is Plaza Beautification chairman for the L.G. Business Women's League. Mrs. Chappelle is president of the League. The two women have tapped every service club and as many business firms as possible, for the $2,210 they need annually to keep the plaza up. This year income was $1,314. Expenses include gardener $1,800; water, $200; weed killer and fertilizer, $110; Christmas decorations, insurance, pipe repairs, lease and miscellaneous items, $100.

The League has underwritten the difference by holding money-raising events, but it is getting harder to meet the bills, the pair said.

Mrs. Heusch said, "This is a business community responsibility because the plaza is beautiful to attract shoppers. Only a handful of firms are contributing to the fund. We need help!"

Mrs. Chappelle said, "We know that the plaza will be overrun with weeds when the League runs out of upkeep money. Perhaps a less tired organization should take over the plaza responsibility."

Business and professional firms not wanting to see this project disintegrate should volunteer help to these two fine ladies. Mrs. Chappelle is available at 466-8276 and Mrs. Heusch at 466-8276.

Give them a call.

Dining With Spiro

Vietnam-watchers learned officially Saturday that homecoming American soldiers are being replaced by fresh Americans and that the military population in Vietnam is not diminishing.

They learned it from a guy who ought to know — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew who spoke at the Republican annual fund-raising dinner in Coronado.

The veep didn't add much else that was newsworthy unless high praise for party workers and a prediction of more GOP victories at the polls in 1970 can be counted.

Yet, the affair was not devoid of excitement. While few realized it, security men flushed a man from the shrubbery surrounding Hotel del Coronado. A metal lunch pail was said to have contained a bomb. The man was hustled away before newsmen could get to the scene.

A Lemon Grove man created a flurry as the Vice President completed his talk when Ralph P. Jensen, of 1626 Watwood rd., one of the 600 persons who paid $125 a plate to take part in the dinner, stood and demanded to be heard. He wanted to be heard about his objection to the handling of the Vietnamese War and campus unrest.

Jensen is a retired business consultant and a Republican supporter. Surprisingly, he was not shuffled out by security officers. But Adm. (USN ret.) Leslie Gehres, who was master of ceremonies, used the microphone to override Jensen, and closed the meeting. Good food and drink, and good oratory apparently triggered Jensen. He said later that he had become aroused when he learned that troops were being replaced in Vietnam.

Few of Mr. Agnew's remarks needed exposition. They followed Mr. Nixon's announced policy closely. Turning first to the presidency, Mr. Agnew commended Mr. Nixon in his recent world tour as the only president who did not pose as a big brother who was going to solve the problems of others. Rapport came easily for Mr. Nixon because of his prior acquaintanceship with many leaders whom he knew before they became leaders, the Vice President said.

The administration's foreign policy is to let people develop as they want to develop. 400,000 Americans who have died in four wars in this century without making demands on the vanquished is best evidence that we are not aggressors, he said.

But peace cannot be obtained unilaterally by walking away. We seek a just and equitable peace. In Paris, the opponent talks of peace and mounts an offensive on the battlefield.

"In spite of this we're making great progress on this problem. But we must maintain some degree of patience just a little longer," he said.

"We are not going to 'bug' out in Vietnam. The American people would not put up with running out on a war. We are not withdrawing. We're replacing."

Other issues to which Mr. Agnew addressed himself included inflation:

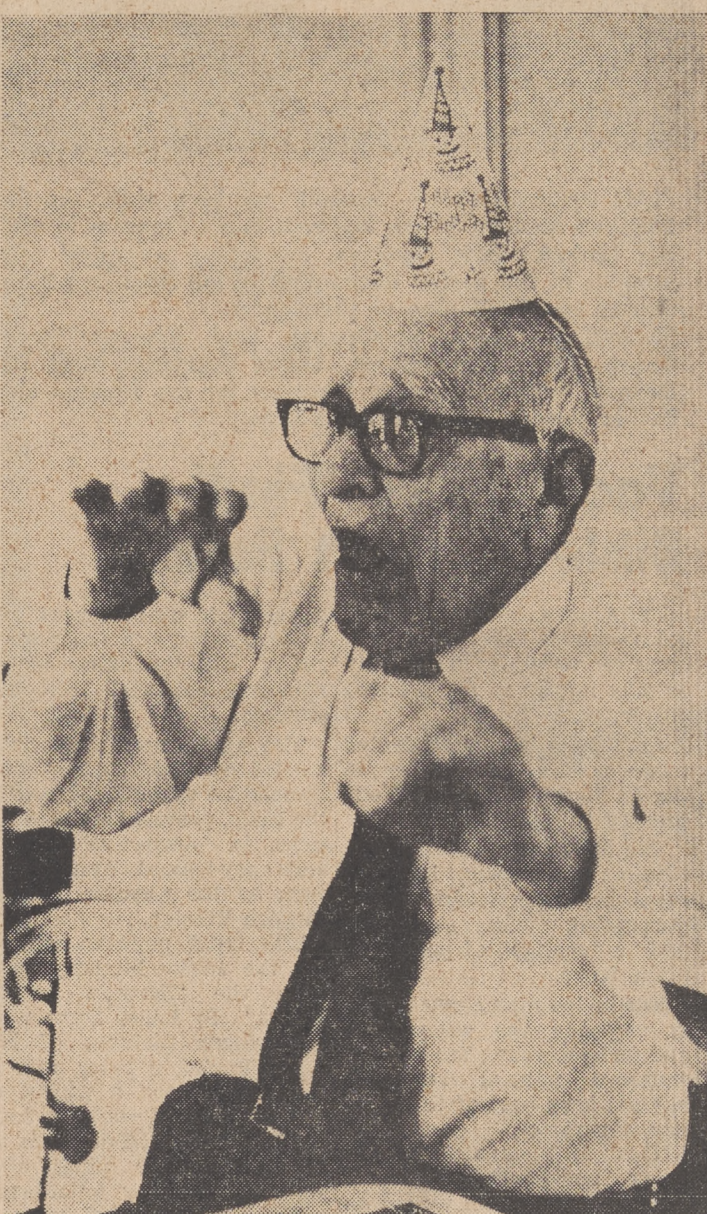

Brakes are successfully being applied to government spending and the extension of the surtax on income tax is helping to cool the economy, he noted.

On population explosion: "World population, now 3 1/2 billion humans, will be 7 billion by the year 2,000. The explosion brings immediate problems in air and water pollution and in transportation. All of these problems are now getting government's attention," he said.

In the works, he said, are programs to modernize the postal service, the draft, unemployment administration, grants-in-aid, the Office of Economic Opportunity, and to bring tax reforms. Competition, he said, must be ended between federal and local agencies. In this, a reversal of the power flow must be accomplished.

About welfare: "We must get people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls. We will insist that everyone who accepts welfare must also be willing to accept work." He said this is the first significant departure from former welfare programs.

CELEBRATION DAY — Joseph Mazer, 96, leads guests in singing "There's a Hole in the Bottom of the Sea" during his birthday party August 13. Mazer lives in the Monte Vista Lodge on Massachusetts st. in Lemon Grove. He was born in Russia in 1873.

96 Years Old; Back For More

For Joseph Mazer, a resident of Lemon Grove's Monte Vista Lodge on Massachusetts st., birthdays are old hat. And make that a party hat. Mazer has seen 96 anniversaries come and go since his actual birthday of August 13, 1873 in Russia.

He celebrated his most recent in the Monte Vista Lodge, surrounded by cheerful old-timers. And he celebrated with a flourish, sipping champagne and leading guests in spontaneous bursts of song.

His previous 96 years take some telling.

Briefly, he left Russia when an infant, and grew up in Philadelphia.

He was a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and taught there.

He was a jeweler in McAlister, Okla., when the state was still a territory. As a jeweler, he owns 19 patents on wrist-watches.

At the age of 60, he switched careers and became a lawyer.

He is the oldest living 33rd degree Mason in the United States. He has been a 33rd degree member of the Scottish Rite Temple for 58 years.

He's lived in California the last 21 years and in Monte Vista Lodge for three years. If you still don't think 96 years is an impressive length of time, consider this:

As a child, Mazer was growing up in Philadelphia less than 100 years after the Declaration of Independence was drafted there.

As a man, he celebrates his 96 birthday in San Diego, a city that is making a lot of noise although it is only 104 years older than he.

Teen Center Asks Help

Churches and other organizations interested in a youth-aid program are invited to take part in the Teen Action Center in Spring Valley, said Mrs. Herbert Lowe.

Nova Smith, director of the center, said approximately 50 youngsters had taken a deeper interest in religion as a result of the center's one month of operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregg, formerly of Lemon Grove, and Mrs. Peggy McLain, has issued a newsletter in which the development of the center is programmed.

Mrs. McLain showed the need for the center being open daytime as well as in the evenings. The Rev. Jimmy Johnson of the Skyline Wesleyan church underwrote one day a week.

All members reported that help is needed. Contacts may be made with Nova Smith at 463-8508; Mrs. Peggy McLain at 582-1742, or Mrs. Lowe at 466-3053.

The center is located in the Thriftymart Shopping center at Jamacha and Elkton blvd. in Spring Valley.

Water Tax Stable

SAN DIEGO — The San Diego County Water Authority tax rate will remain at 9 cents per $100 of assessed value. This was decided at a meeting of the San Diego County Water Authority Thursday.

Authority staff had recommended a one cent increase, but directors considered that the calculations for interest earned on invested funds was too conservative, and that the Authority could exceed the expected sum of $1,378,000 by about $100,000.

Public Meeting Draws Sparks

Underground Election Seen

Anyway you look at it, an undergrounding conversion project can arouse a lot of emotion.

Almost everyone who had anything to say, said it Wednesday night at the public underground district meeting at Palm Junior High school. When the meeting was over, a show of hands indicated that 27 people wanted the County Board of Supervisors to set a public hearing for creating a district. Ten opposed it. Sixty-five people were present when Jim Wermers, chairman of the Palm Avenue Citizens League called the meeting to order. Nearly half the total left the meeting after two hours of confab.

Before it was over, a hassle at the microphone on the podium, resulted in the seating of Jackson Ammons, opposing the district's formation.

True Democracy

It was a spirited meeting — in the finest tradition of small town democracy in action — complete with name calling and threats.

Stars of the ten-man panel program were Jim Wermers, who seated Ammons, Ammons, himself, who put up a valiant battle; George Young, an electrician who refused to be badgered; P. J. Dewes, of the SD Gas and Electric Co., who called from memory facts and figures to offset misinformation that was tossed in by opponents; Albert Boggs, an engineer with the County, V. L. Larson, the PacTel rep., and Jim Smith, utility coordinator for the County.

$130 Estimate

General information that finally trickled down was that it would cost about $130 a residence to change the electrical hook-up and meter at the house. All the rest will be provided free of charge except a trench for accommodating the service from the right-of-way to the residence and an $18.50 County electric permit. Trenches may be self-dug to utility firms' specifications.

The County Building Inspection controls would end at the new meter box but that any dangerous or overburdened lines observed would be identified and tagged so that the owner would be aware of the hazard.

If the Supervisors order a hearing, it will be to form undergrounding 150 feet from the Palm street, centerline from Imperial to Golden. Those who oppose it will be heard officially at that time.

The main trench would be installed when Palm is widened to four traffic lanes in 1970. Utilities have set aside funds for undergrounding costs in the right-of-way.

Conduits for electricity and telephone will be provided to the structure by the utilities. This leaves the property owner to provide the adapters, the hookup, the trench — and the permit.

Prior to the road widening,

UNDERGROUND MEETING — Jim Wermers, left, presided at last week's meeting at which information was made available to Palm st. residents. Putting telephone and electric lines underground is tied to a 1970 road improvement. At right, P. J. Dewes of SDG&E speaks while Jim Smith, utility coordinator for S. D. County, listens pensively.

the County will purchase land necessary to increase the right-of-way in varying amounts. $110,000 has been set aside to buy rights-of-way Boggs said.

Errors Corrected

Opponents argued that the district would be a taxing district. This was proven erroneous by Dewes. The belief that the poles had to be moved anyway to make way for the widening was agreeable to the panel. "But you will have overhead wires and poles that much closer to your house," they said.

At meeting's end, the only opposition was that of money. Even some of these opponents agreed that compensation for land would more than pay for the conversion.

Jim Smith, County Utilities Co-ordinator, said that papers requesting the Board of Supervisors to conduct a hearing are being prepared by his department.

At the Supervisor's hearing, those who wish to be heard may do so by asking the Clerk of the Board to put his name on the agenda.

County Fees Raised; Sups to Hire Lobbyist

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — The County Board of Supervisors on Monday raised rezoning and variance rates, set new rules for rezones, and said they will hire a representative in Washington, D.C.

The rezoning rates will about double, except in the case of large acreage, in which case they can go as high as $750 from the present $150.

Most variances, except for the most simple, will go from $40 to $200 but some will only go from $40 to $76.

The change will not pay all of the cost of the work that goes into the planning effort, but will come closer than at present.

Chief Administrative Officer Fred Morey told the supervisors that the new fees are a compromise between costs and what the applicant can pay.

The new fees will require preparation of an ordinance and will not go into effect until Oct. 1.

The rezoning change is a complicated one and is designed to assure that rezones are actually for the purpose of construction.

One section of this new policy would require the filing final subdivision maps within two years or the rezoning would not become effective.

Board members were tired of rezones which, for one reason or another, have never been used for development.

Authorization by the board to Chief Administrative Officer Fred Morey for the employment of a representative in Washington was given without discussion, although board members had discussed this in the past.

The county is involved in so many present and potential federal programs that the yearly cost of from $55,000 to $60,000 will probably be regained easily.

Brookside Drainage Project Funded

Drainage facilities in the Brookside area adjacent to Sweetwater rd., will be improved in a $59,369 project awarded to G. R. Henderson, a La Jolla contractor. The announcement was made by Third District Supervisor Harry Scheidle.

Scheidle said improved drainage will more adequately distribute the concentration of storm water that builds up in this area. The improvement will protect the roadway surface from damage, he said.

The work starts in mid-September and will be completed before December. Funds will come from San Diego County's apportionment of the Highway Users' Tax Fund.

It was thought the boy drowned, but later it was reported the boy was out of the pool and was recovered.

OPPOSES — Jackson Ammons, retired realtor, stands at podium (white shirt) voicing his opposition to surprising large crowd just prior to being gavelled down by presiding official Jim Wermers. The meeting was set as a question and answer affair. Ammons was seated down when he attempted to make a speech.

PLAN DISTRIBUTION — Student workers active in the Christian Ministry in the National Parks Program in Glacier National Park, Montana, are being presented with samples of the packet developed by the American Bible Society for distribution to vacationers.

Vacationers 'Find' Bible In Nat'l Parks

Enjoying natural and spiritual resources are part of a creative vacation. This may or may not be so for a lot of people.

Americans in unprecedented numbers are vacationing in the 52 National Parks of our country this summer.

The rush to the woods, streams and canyons in many cases has been leisurely and purposeful, with relaxation and a "change of pace" the main focus.

But in too many cases, really enjoying the out-of-doors and understanding the need to conserve natural resources has not been part of the vacation experience.

This is illustrated by the noisy motorcycle, campsite litter and vandalism visited on trees and campsite equipment.

To help visitors and employees value their National Parks and provide them with resources for religious services and discussion groups, the latter composed primarily of employees working for Concessions, the Christian Ministry in the National Parks, in cooperation with Parks Administration, was organized some twenty years ago.

Today it is supported by more than 30 denominations. This summer 250 selected students from Universities and Seminaries in the United States have been assigned to the National Parks by the Ministry Program headed by the Rev. Warren Ost, Executive Director.

In a few of the National Parks, such as Sequoia-Kings Canyon and Yosemite in California, year-round resident ministers supervise the students assigned to these parks.

This is also true in Yellowstone National Park and at Grand Canyon. But elsewhere most of the students must rely on their own interest and resourcefulness in the organization and planning of the non-denominational religious services.

The American Bible Society, a 153-year-old agency for translation and distribution of the Bible, provides many scriptures in attractive formats and easy-to-read translations, such as the popular Today's English Version.

The most popular editions for the Parks Ministry have been the "Sermon on the Mount" in folder form with half-a-dozen pictures of National Parks in color, and in the 1969 season a packet of sixteen selected readings from the Bible, each headed with an attractive color photo of a National Park or Monument.

These are provided in quantity for free distribution to Park Visitors. Entitled, "How Great Thou Art", the packet is really a souvenir with meaning.

Over 500,000 packets have been printed for free distribution in National and State Parks; in hotels and motels; and for use by youth in summer camps.

Recently the students serving in the Parks Ministry Program at MacDonald Lodge in Glacier National Park, were visited by the Executive Secretary for the Western and Pacific Region, Dr. Dean S. Collins, who presented them with copies of the special packets entitled, "How Great Thou Art".

Backyard Bible schools will be conducted by the teens, using puppets, to tell the Bible stories, with Gary Cato as production manager.

The group will be accompanied by Bill Hawes, Music Director for the church, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Byrd, and Mrs. Dick Whiteside.

Eight members of the Choral, called "The Contemporaries", returned Wednesday from a 3 week tour in nine states, plus two days in the Bahamas. They recently released their first stereo album, "The Contemporaries Sing To A Searching Generation", which is on sale at local record stores.

Dr. Billy Graham Honors War Dead

Dr. Billy Graham has accepted an invitation to be guest speaker at the 15th Annual Massing of the Colors and Service of Remembrance, which this year will honor the San Diego 200th Anniversary.

The announcement was made by Mayor Frank Curran, at a meeting at 200th Anniversary headquarters.

The annual service, which honors the dead of all wars, is scheduled this year at 3 p.m. Oct. 12 at San Diego Stadium.

The event is sponsored by La Jolla Chapter, Military Order of World Wars, in cooperation with religious, civic and military organizations of San Diego County.

The Rev. Harry Williams, crusade manager for Dr. Graham, was also present at Wednesday's meeting, as were George Scott, representing the 200th Anniversary, and Ed Matlin, Copley Newspapers.

The annual patriotic event is traditionally held the week preceding or following Armistice Day in November.

The date for this year's service was changed in order that the people of San Diego County would have an opportunity to hear Dr. Graham speak.

Letters inviting Dr. Graham to speak were sent by the City of San Diego, County of San Diego, San Diego Chamber of Commerce, San Diego Unified Port District and Copley Newspapers.

San Diego Congressman Lionel Van Derlin and Bob Wilson also sent letters to Dr. Graham inviting him to speak in San Diego.

Foothills Methodist Opens Tots' Class

Foothills United Methodist Pre-School is making plans to open in September 1969 for children ages 3 to 5 of members, friends, and parents of this community. The schedule will be from 9 to 11:45 a.m.

Preparation Pre-School project is well underway, thanks to the many volunteer workers at Foothills. The newly decorated playrooms are equipped with child-size furniture painted in gay colors.

Painting, fencing, building bridges over the "stream" and a jungle gym are only some of the outdoor projects to be completed on Saturday work-days.

There is a real row boat for active boys and girls to climb in, plus a large sandbox and a paved area, in a whale shape, for "wheel toys".

A fine teaching staff has been selected — they are Mrs. Barbara Rader, Mrs. Helen Slusher, and Mrs. Audrey Gwathmey.

Mrs. Rader believes that three is a good age to start school if your child seems ready for it. Skills, such as pictures and counting are only a very small part of what a good pre-school can give a child.

Learning how to enjoy the company of children his own age, to cooperate, to think up projects and work them out, to be free to romp and dance and sing are much more important.

A child needs these experiences when he is young. The longer they are postponed, the harder it is to pick them up easily.

TOO HOT?? Just because it is too hot to cook during the summer, is no excuse for neglecting your family's diet. Remember that fresh fruits and vegetables have even more nutrients than when they are cooked. And, don't forget to include that very essential two or more glasses of cold milk (or its equivalent) each day, reminds the Dairy Council of California.

The large silver medal is the first of its kind struck by the U. S. Mint and only 1,000 were produced.

More than $500,000 worth of bicentennial medallions have been sold by the San Diego 200th Anniversary, Inc. since the medals went on sale July 16, 1968.

The first order of 11,000 medals was virtually sold out in a single day and the 200th placed an order for an additional 50,000 on July 17, 1968.

Two sizes of bronze and two sizes of silver medals were struck by the United States Mint to commemorate the founding of San Diego in 1769 and the year-long birthday party.

TAX ANSWERS

F. S. Schmidt, DISTRICT DIRECTOR, INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I'm a travelling salesman. What kind of records do I need to support the deductions I take for travel expenses on my return?

A — Cancelled checks, receipts or other records should be kept to establish the amount of the expense, the date paid and the purpose. You should keep a diary or similar record of your expenses and enter them as they occur. This will be helpful in supporting your claim.

For more details on record keeping, drop a post card to your District Director and ask for a free copy of Publication 463, Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses.

Q — Is there any tax advantage in having my husband claim my exemption for withholding purposes on his job rather than me doing it on mine? I was married a month ago and will be working the rest of the year.

A — If you file a joint return at the end of the year as most married couples do, it won't make too much difference who claims your exemption for withholding purposes. However, if you think separate returns would be to your advantage, continue to claim your own exemption.

If your husband claims your withholding exemption then you will no longer be entitled to claim it. To make a change in the number of exemptions claimed, a new withholding certificate, Form W-4, Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate, should be filed with your employer.

Q — Someone was telling me that all guns had to be registered with IRS last year. Is that true?

A — No. Ordinary guns, such as revolvers, pistols, rifles and shotguns used for hunting and sporting purposes, did not have to be registered with IRS. Only criminal or gangster-type weapons such as sawed-off shotguns, machine guns and short-barrelled rifles had to be registered by December 2, 1968.

Grenades, bombs, rockets and projectile firing weapons such as bazookas and mortars also had to be registered.

Q — My son graduated from high school and has started to work. If he lives at home, can we still claim him as an independent?

A — The general rule is that you cannot claim anyone as a dependent who has income of $600 or more during the year. This rule does not apply to your own child if he is under 19 at year end or was a full-time student for any part of five calendar months of the year.

Michael's To Re-Open As a Billiard Palace

After two years of darkness, Michael's restaurant, 7830 Broadway, in Lemon Grove, will open again.

It will not open as a restaurant, however. It will be opened as a plush billiard parlor specializing in sandwiches and beer.

The operator, Marvin Karjala, of Oceanside, said he will spend $30,000 refurbishing the place. It will be opened in mid-September as the Billiard Palace. Nine tables have been ordered.

Karjala operates similar places in Oceanside and Riverside.

Prior to starting family billiard places, Karjala operated restaurants at the Hilton Hawaiian in Honolulu; in the Arden Fair shopping center in Sacramento, and in Palm Springs. All were called the Lani-K. He sold each of them before embarking into the billiard business.

"Billiards play," he said, "is a new concept in relaxation for the younger set. They play, sit around and talk, and have a midnight snack. Family members enjoy the game and that atmosphere, too. We'll have tables and booths. 'The place will be fully carpeted and completely air-conditioned. It will be a place where families will be proud to come.'"

Two On LMSV Staff Receive Doctorates

Two La Mesa-Spring Valley School District administrators have been awarded doctorates.

Thomas C. Vandruff, assistant superintendent, personnel, has received the degree of doctor of philosophy from the Graduate School of Leadership and Human Behavior, United States International University, San Diego, and William R. Schell, director of instructional materials, received the degree of doctor of education from UCLA.

Vandruff completed a dissertation, "Teachers' Appraisal of Status." Vandruff said the study was in part an analysis of teacher perception of self. It was an attempt to determine the degree of satisfaction teachers have with their profession.

Noteworthy finding, according to Vandruff, was that there is relatively little dissatisfaction. He said inexperienced teachers were most concerned with the quality of professional leadership, while experienced teachers were most dissatisfied with prospects of adequate compensation.

Schell's dissertation was a study of fact retention and attitudinal changes resulting from the viewing of films on narcotics.

He said his study proved to be fruitful because of current concern with the narcotics problem and also because it added to the understanding of the place films have in the educational process.

Vandruff received his B.S. in English in 1949 from Lewis & Clark College in Portland and his M.A. from Stanford in 1950. His background includes teaching and administration at both the elementary and junior high levels.

He was principal of an elementary school and of an intermediate school in Millbrae, California. He has also been active in professional associations.

Schell received both his A.B. and his M.A. from San Diego State.

He came to the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District in 1949 as a teacher at Spring Valley Elementary.

In 1955 he was appointed principal at Bancroft and was transferred in 1961 to Highlands, again as principal. He has served in his present position since 1963.

This summer Schell assumed the office of president of the Audio-Visual Education Association of California, Southern Section.

For the annual strawberry festival at Lebanon, Ore., a shortcake 16 feet long, 12 feet wide, eight feet high and weighing 5,700 pounds, was baked.

Learn Spanish the Easy Way

Hardison's Telespanish

by James Hardison

How does one say "You're putting me on" in Spanish? Is there such an expression? If so, is it commonly used and what are some of the variations of its use?

There is such an expression in Spanish. One may say, in a simple form, "usted bromea" for "you're putting me on." Actually the word "bromear" is taken from "bromear" which means "to kid along" or "to joke."

Literally "putting me on" does not translate effectively into Spanish. The verb "to put" (poner) is the same as the verb "to place" (poner) and would result in the phrase "ponerme en" and translated as "to place me on."

A variation of "putting me on" is found in the expression "haciendome bromas" (making a joke for me). Another variation is found in "dar bromas" and means "to tease."

If one wishes to say "practical joke," the Spanish expression is "broma pesada." Here the word "pesada" assumes the meaning of "practical" rather than the common meaning of "heavy" or "profound."

Practical phrases listed below use various forms of "bromear." You may say them with greater ease by listening to and repeating them with the recorded voice heard when you dial 276-2762.

Jazzy Ramsey Lewis Returns To Bali Hai

The mood is upbeat, the setting a tropical lagoon, and the IN crowd is there — waiting for the lights to dim and the first glimpse of Ramsey Lewis at Bali Hai.

Suddenly the lights are up — the introduction brief, as he needs none. Then Ramsey Lewis takes over. No one matches him for sheer talent and musical touch. He plays the kind of jazz that makes the word famous.

Soul music that somehow comes out all blue. Beside him on the outdoor pavilion of the incomparable Bali Hai restaurant are the two others who make up the distinctive Ramsey Lewis sound, drummer Maurice White and bass artist Cleveland Eaton II.

The blue music of Ramsey Lewis is a large, beautiful thing which seems to envelope the audience with a style and mood all its own. Their attention and silence is startling — nothing but music prevails in the soft summer night.

Ramsey is on stage, and his command is clear as he fades slow ballads into popular gospel tunes without need of introduction.

3 Artists Appear

Three outstanding musical artists will present "Voices of Czechoslovakia" featuring compositions by Antonin Dvorak and Leos (cq) Janacek, Sunday, Aug. 24, at 8 p.m. in Rush Hall at the University of Southern California-Joyl-wild School of Music and the Arts.

The performers will be: Howard Fried, nationally known tenor from San Diego; Beverly Green, mezzo-soprano, and Constance Virtue, pianist, both from La Mesa.

The program is open to the public. Admission will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

What's doing?

If an emergency arises, you want to contact the help you need the fastest way possible. So here's a reminder about a convenience that's right on the inside front cover of your telephone book. There you'll find spaces for filling in important numbers such as the Fire Department, the Police, and your doctor. If you take a few seconds to write them down, they could save valuable time when it counts—because the fastest way to get help is to dial direct. Of course, if there's some reason you can't, just dial "0" for Operator. She's there to help.

The telephone puts faraway family and friends as close as a few spins of the dial. Take advantage of the lower night and weekend rates and give them a call. It costs surprisingly little.

It may surprise you to learn that gophers are a subject of serious study for telephone scientists. Because of the rapid growth rate of their front teeth, gophers have an inborn tendency to chew—which keeps the incisors worn down to manageable lengths. Unfortunately, telephone cable provides them with ideal fare for dental health.

Studies show that these game little fellows will not only chew through plastic coatings on buried cable but also through soft metals like aluminum and lead. Phone scientists are continually testing new types of cable protection that will prove impervious to these persistent underground diners.

38th La Jolla Swim Expects Record Field

With trophies available this year for first through 10th place in Open, Intermediate and Junior divisions rather than just through third place as in past years, a record field is expected for the 38th La Jolla Rough Water Swim on Sept. 7 at La Jolla Cove at 2 p.m.

This would mean more than the 308 entries who crowded the starting line in last year's race and could swell the total Aqua Fiesta entries — including earlier Junior Rough Water Swim and paddleboard races — past the record of 689 set last year.

Entries are expected from all over California and Western states for the historic swim, dating back to 1917. Last year's winners, Robert Center of the Lakewood Aquatic Club and Amy Howe of Mission Viejo are both expected back as well as the runners-up, Pete Mirich of San Pedro Swim Club and Denis Pearson of the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Entry deadline is Sept. 3 at the city Aquatics Headquarters.

In addition to the 66 trophies given out in 12 divisions of the Rough Water Swim, survivors medals will be presented to all who finish.

The Aqua Fiesta is again sponsored by the La Jolla Town Council in cooperation with the San Diego Recreation Department and under auspices of the Pacific Southwest Amateur Athletic Union.

Mail Bag

Dear Editor:
I very much appreciate your coming up to me after the incident I created at the Republican dinner at the Del Coronado Hotel Saturday evening. See "Dimmer View" Page 1

You will remember that I was not only waved down by Admiral Gehres, but shouted down by other party members as being "out of order". Of this, I am thoroughly convinced. But, the interesting thing was that some of the same people who shouted me down came to me personally, and after visiting with me, agreed with my thinking. Having several calls in the same vein this morning, I felt encouraged to write to you.

If you recall, my opening remark to Admiral Gehres was that I likened the meeting to a stockholders' meeting and that each of us as stockholders in the Republican party and the United States should have the opportunity to be heard. The part you may not have heard was that I felt the Viet Nam war was our No. 1 problem presently, and that the American people, whether they be young or old, must be appraised of the "why" in order to be willing to send their sons and spend their money in pursuit of this war.

I was, perhaps, the most surprised individual in the group when I found myself on my feet trying to get an audience with Admiral Gehres and the group. I did not come to the dinner with any idea of being a participant, but when I heard Vice President Agnew state that "further U. S. troop withdrawals from Viet Nam are unlikely", I felt strongly that the same American people who had rejected Humphrey and Johnson because of the Viet Nam situation, might also next reject the Nixon administration unless a better selling job is done on the reason and/or need for the war.

This thinking is confirmed in Kip Cooper's Sunday, August 17, article interviewing Rep. Charles R. Jonas, R-North Carolina, wherein on Point 1, Mr. Jonas says:

"A poll showing 52% of Americans as thinking that military spending is too high." Also, Mr. Jonas says further:

"No amount of money spent on defense is too much, if it is necessary."

According to Mr. Jonas' concluding statement, these people, cited by polls as being against military spending, have been fed a lot of stories about what defense is costing us — intimating the circulation of false rumors.

In the Johnson administration, we called it the "credibility gap", and I feel the Nixon administration does not want this. In order to avoid it, the people are going to have to be given the facts and educated to the need of the war. And, if there is a real need, a war should be declared and pursued to a conclusion.

Thanks again for your kind indulgence.

Sincerely yours,
Ralph P. Jensen

P.S. There were three explanations given for Mr. Agnew's questionably rude (socially speaking, of course) absence from dinner, and late appearance with only enough time allowed for his drab, factual presentation, i.e.:

1. He was delayed returning from a cruise.
2. He was involved upon his return with unexpected mail and phone calls.
3. There had been a reported bomb scare.

Which one do you buy? If it was No. 3, were the rest of us expendable?

WAYS — Department of Motor Vehicles Manager Paul Haider demonstrates to motorist Carlene Hustad the D.M.V. means what the banner says: "We Are At Your Service." WAYS is current DMV program. Both Haider and Miss Hustad are Lemon Grove residents.

Auto Licensing Facilities Being Humanized, Says Haider

by MAX GOODWIN

At least one governmental bureau is facing up to the fact that John Q. Public is paying the bill.

It's the State Department of Motor Vehicles — an agency the public meets, usually under very trying circumstances. On such time is when the motorist takes his driving test.

Even the tests are easier — but not at the expense of jeopardizing public safety, says Paul Haider, of 7216 Pearson st., in Lemon Grove.

Haider, a long time Lemon Grove resident, is manager of the Chula Vista office of the Department of Motor Vehicles. He has served DMV for a decade after retiring from the Navy.

"We've adopted the policy that our employer is the taxpayer California motorist," Haider said. It is not only at my office, but at all DMV offices throughout the state. There is another office at 4265 Palm ave., in La Mesa.

"We're displaying a banner which reads WAYS," Haider said. "That's an acronym for 'We're At Your Service.'"

Haider's office lists 17 ways in which the services to the motoring public is being improved. "One is that we emphasize among our personnel the importance of human relations. A continuing program of training has made our people more versatile. When lines form in our office it is not because some of our people are soldiering. It's simply that we've got more business than a fine staff can handle without a waiting period," he said.

"One thing that goes with the service is a smile. We consider that our first responsibility," Haider said.

Haider listed the new approaches the Department of Motor Vehicles is using to keep strong bureau-public rapport.

1. Computerization. Direct-wire access to license plate file and driver's performance records by most law enforcement agencies.

2. Employees annually renew their commitment to courteous, efficient service through "Courtesy" and "Welcome" campaigns — and the current "WAYS" campaign.

3. The new California Drivers Handbook which is easier to read and understand.

4. Adding women drivers license examiners to the staff.

5. The adult non-driver identity card of which 20,000 have been issued. Soon 18-year-olds may acquire them.

6. DMV suspension for six months the drivers' licenses of thousands of motorists who refuse to take a sobriety test.

7. Dropped the back up test. Older drivers in particular have welcomed this change.

8. Cut by half the time it once took (45 days) for a driver to get his license by mail from Sacramento once he qualified.

9. Mailing all temporary licenses to foil forgers who once got them across-the-counter. Now he can use only his true address.

10. Surveillance of vehicle sales industry's advertising and selling practices. Recently a dealer was charged with rolling back the mileage on odometers. Even dealers' tv ads are recorded.

11. Persistent law violators and crash-prone drivers are required to attend safety classes. DMV found this more effective among male drivers than a scolding.

12. Special skills tests for motorcyclists.

13. Helps enforce, in co-operation with the California Highway Patrol, the world's toughest smog control laws. If the vehicle doesn't meet the standards, no license is issued.

14. Work with problem drivers. Statistics have proved that re-education helps more than fault-finding. A study on the effect of environment on teen-age driving habits is being examined.

15. Streamlining every department to give better service.

vice without increasing the cost.

16. Plans for more readable, more attractive gold-on-blue license plates.

17. Naming a nine-member Medical Advisory Board to review procedures for issuing licenses to disabled persons. DMV philosophy is that handicapped persons should not be penalized if he can safely drive a vehicle but with the public's safety paramount.

Haider emphasized that there is no upper age limit to the driving privilege. Ability, not age, determines the driver's right to a license. This is equally true of the young driver. Young drivers are given the same courteous treatment as adults. "Maybe a little more consideration," Haider said. "Often the first-time young applicant is nervous and doesn't perform up to his full capabilities."

The Chula Vista office is a busy one. More than 225 licenses a day are issued there. 125 driver's test are given daily, and 275 applications are typed.

"We try to keep testing on an informal but firm basis. We want the driver to be relaxed. As an example of what some applicants are thinking at examination time was the woman with whom I talked to her car to take her driving test."

"I'm getting hungry," I said.

"I didn't know you examiners ate," she replied. She admitted later the statement relaxed her. And there was the little, 92-year old lady from Coronado who was in earlier this month for her license. She passed it, too. She even passed the visual test without glasses. It gave all of our people a lift because she was such a pleasant little thing," he added.

"Ours is heavily laced with work requirements," he said.

A meaningful manpower training program with decentralized administration is in the works. A bonus system for those who go into job training is also planned, he said.

On crime: "There is a new brand of justice coming. One where the criminals wear the handcuffs instead of the police."

On the economy: "We want to make it so that the free enterprise system instead of government will be depended upon for a sound economy."

Mr. Agnew's schedule was such that no news conference was held. He arrived at the head table long after dinner had started. He was flanked by a cordon of security guards. When the program was over they surrounded him again and escorted him to a waiting white limosine. He was driven to North Island where a helicopter, its blades turning, was waiting.

At the head table were Congressman Bob Wilson, Assemblymen Pete Wilson and John Stull; Senator Clair Burgener, City Councilman Tom Horn, and Gehres.

Proceeds from the dinner, $115 a ticket profit, will be used on Republican candidates in the 1970 campaign," Gehres said.

Many diners complained about the service at Hotel del. Coffee, dessert and drinking water could not be obtained at many tables.
